Carlsberg Logo PNG Carlsberg is a high profile beer brewing company from Denmark, which today has a global network of enterprises. The company is renowned for its pioneering of effective brewing methods. Probably the Best Beer in the World. Meaning and history The first Carlsberg logo featured an elephant and a swastika. For political reasons, the logo was abolished in the 1930s. The company's current logo goes back to 1904. It was hand-drawn by Thorvald Binesbol, an industrial designer from Denmark. The logo features the Company name, and the font pretty much retains the designer's handwriting. It is topped by a red-and-gold crown, which symbolizes the company's ties with the Royal Danish Court. The Carlsberg logo represents four colors: green, white, gold and red. As the logo appears on different products, the green and white sometimes exchange places: the company may come in white on green background, or vice versa. The colors of the crown remain unchanged. The palette expresses energy, excellence, freshness, passion, determination, elegance, royalty, and grace. In 2004 - a century since its introduction - the Danish Design Center endowed the logo with a design prize. That was an unprecedented event in the history of logo design. What is Carlsberg? Carlsberg is the name of a globally-known beer brand, which was established in Denmark in 1847. There are several types of drinks, produced under the Carlsberg label, from water to classic beers. Today it has grown into a huge group, owning several popular brands of beer, exported all over the globe. 1931 - 1971 The Carlsberg logo, designed for the beer manufacturer atthe beginning of the 1930s, has already featured that recognizable design, we all can see today. Although the logotype was written in black lines, it was executed in a custom cursive font with bold lines and elongated tails of some letters, and a bold wavy underline of the inscription, which was merged into the tail of the "G". 1971 - 2018 The Carlsberg logo, which became official in 1931, was designed by Thorvald Binesbol in 1904 but was just laying on the table for more than two decades. It was a dark green stylized script lettering with a delicate emblem in the same color, placed above the letter 'R'. The inscription was handwritten and had the tails of the "C", "R" and "G" elongated and playfully curved. The emblem depicted a three-leaf with rounded details and triangular shape, which is placed pointing down and resembling a fine snowflake when the logo was drawn in a reverse color palette - white on green. 2018 - Today The redesign of 2018 made the Carlsberg logo fresher and more elegant by elevating its color palette to white and a lighter shade of green, which Joe evokes a sense of success and growth. The typeface of the nameplate was refined and softened, making the lines of the inscription thinner and more rounded. The upper bar of the letter "R" was smooth and bold, resembling a leaf of a tree, which balances the Carlsberg emblem, placed right above it. Carlsberg is a Danish company producing the high-standard beer. It's the second manufacturer of the beer in the world (After Anheuser-Busch InBev). The company's brands include Russian best-selling beer Baltika, Danish Tuborg, and the beer Carlsberg itself, as well as many others. Meaning and History The brewery was founded in 1847 by the Danish entrepreneur J. C. Jacobsen. The name consists of two parts: the name of Jacobsen's then-infant son, Carl, as well as the word bjerg (eventually changed to berg), which means 'hill'. It is a reference to that the brewery was built on the hill over Copenhagen. 1931 - 2018 The current brand mark of the company takes a story from the year 1904, when it was drawn by Thorvald Binesbol and suggested to the company leaders. His logo became official in 1931, when Carlsberg decided to remove its initial brand mark with the swastika on it. So, the logo drawn by Thorvald Binesbol depicts the green handwritten inscription, full of rounded letters and curious connections between them. There are many interesting features in the whole word, such as the small symbol above the inscription, which resembles the clover. 2018 - Today In the year 2018, the same logo was a bit brightened, but the main structure remained unchanged. Emblem and Symbol The company also formerly used a swastika as part of their emblem (for no reason). In the 30s, they stopped doing it because it became quite unacceptable for political reasons to do it. So, the company had to introduce another mark that would be no less visible among the other companies' brands. Carlsberg Logo Vector Carlsberg Logo Black and White Carlsberg Logo (1) Carlsberg Logo PNG Carlsberg is the flagship brand of the Carlsberg Group Corporation. It appeared in 1904: it was then that the original lager was brewed for the first time in a Danish factory. The creator of the drink is Carl Jacobsen. Meaning and History What is Carlsberg? It is the flagship brand of the Danish company of the same name Carlsberg Group. This brand sells beer with an alcohol content of 5%. The iconic Carlsberg logo was unveiled in 1904 by the ornamental artist Thorvald Binesboll. The resulting label has survived to this day almost unchanged. 1931 - 2018 In the original version, the main element was the brand name written in Carlsberg Sans font. Above it was a red crown, which indicated that the brewery supplied products to the royal palace. Nearby was the trademark: a small hop leaf, symbolizing the natural recipe of the drink. But after a few years, the developers revised the emblem, leaving only the inscription and the sheet. The 1931 version is the closest to the modern one. 2018 - today The last significant redesign took place in September 2018. The manufacturer hired the Taxi Studio branding agency and the artist, Tom Lane, to improve Carlsberg's visual identity. Font and Colors of the Emblem The inscription on the iconic logo is non-standard: some letters are connected, while others stand separately. "C" looks like a large sickle. A wide line extends from "g" to the left, similar to a waving ribbon. The hop leaf is hand-drawn with thin lines. The branding symbol is inspired by the historical heritage of the brand and old labels on beer bottles. After the redesign, it was moved closer to the middle of the "r," making the logo more symmetrical. The trademark is presented in two basic colors: white and green. There are also seven secondary shades. These include pink, red-brown, light blue, blue, yellow, light green, and khaki. They are used depending on the background. The beer brand has long used the slogan adopted in 1973: 'Probably the best beer in the world.' But in 2019, she released a self-deprecating ad, changing the famous phrase to 'Probably not the best beer in the world.' The beer brand's logo is an elegant green 'Carlsberg' lettering. All letters are individually designed. A long, wavy line extends from 'g' to the left. Above the 'r' is an abstract symbol in the form of a snowflake or a tree leaf. The Carlsberg Foundation partly owns the Carlsberg Group. The rest of the assets are in the hands of individual shareholders. In 2020, Carlsberg UK and Marston's merged to form the Carlsberg Marston's Brewing Company. 40% of the assets are owned by Marston's and 60% by the Carlsberg Group.
